Sixteenth Literacy Committee Newsletter

Literacy Secretary: Rakhi Poonia (2020-21)

How to become an anesthesiologist in Atlanta and in Georgia?

Today's newsletter required extensive as well as intensive research and analysis on my part.

I researched that being an anesthesiologist in Atlanta and in Georgia is a white collar and high paying job.

Introduction

This newsletter answers questions like who is an anesthesiologist? What are his duties? How to become an anesthesiologist in Atlanta and in Georgia? What are degree requirements of an anesthesiologist in Atlanta and in Georgia? How much do they get paid?

Chapter 1

This newsletter answers questions like who is an anesthesiologist?

I researched extensively and intensively on

<https://www.medicalnewstoday.com/articles/287857>

and found that:

- a. “An anesthesiologist is a doctor who gives a patient medication, so they do not feel pain when they are undergoing surgery.”
- b. “However, these specialist physicians play a much wider role than just putting people to sleep for surgery.”
- c. “They are also involved in a range of other medical procedures, including carrying out assessments in critical care units, dealing with emergency situations, and giving advice about pain management.”

Chapter 2

What are anesthesiologists' duties?

I researched on:

https://www.medicalnewstoday.com/articles/287857#what-does-an-anesthesiologist-do? website and found that:

- a. "The anesthesiologist provides pain relief before, during and after surgery, but they also fulfill a number of other important roles."
- b. "Before an operation, a patient will meet with the anesthesiologist for an evaluation. The anesthesiologist will make a plan for the operation that considers the individual needs of the patient."
- c. "On the day of the operation, the anesthesiologist supervises the administration of medication so that the patient will not experience pain."
- d. "However, the anesthesiologist does not physically provide most anesthetics. They supervise either a CRNA or Anesthesia Assistant while they provide the anesthetic. CRNAs often work independently without supervision as well."

Chapter 4

What are degree requirements of an anesthesiologist in Atlanta and in Georgia?

I researched and found an answer to this question on study.com website.

https://study.com/articles/Anesthesiologist\_Education\_Requirements\_and\_Career\_Information.html

- a. “Becoming an anesthesiologist requires completion of undergraduate prerequisite courses, medical school, and a residency, as well as post-residency (fellowship) training if one wants to further specialize (for example, in pediatric anesthesiology).”
- b. “Undergraduate Education. There is no official degree required for admission to medical school, and many baccalaureate programs can adequately prepare students for this endeavor.”
- c. “Some schools prefer graduates with a 4-year degree in natural sciences, which should include classes in physics, organic and inorganic chemistry, anatomy, and biology.”
- d. “Prior to specializing in anesthesiology, all perspective anesthesiologists must graduate from a 4-year doctor of medicine. These extremely competitive programs are renowned for their academically demanding and time-consuming nature.”

- e. “The first two years of medical school build on students' undergraduate knowledge of the natural sciences and add more specialized sciences to the mix.”
- f. “The second half of medical school is primarily dedicated to clinical study. Students take part in 4-12-week clinical rotations that serve as their on-the-job introduction to various branches of medicine, such as pediatrics, geriatrics, oncology and anesthesiology.”
- g. “Residency and Fellowship: Anesthesiologists in the U.S. must undergo a 4-year resident training program after graduating from medical school.”
